

DEFEND THE HUDSON

PEOPLE'S PROTEST + PRESS CONFERENCE

General Electric's PCBs destroyed clean drinking water, killed a thriving commercial fishing industry and turned an American Heritage River into a toxic waste site.

Now the company is abandoning its cleanup—even though enough PCBs remain in the Hudson to delay its recovery for generations.

Join the People's Protest at the last meeting between GE, state and federal officials. Together, we'll urge Gov. Cuomo and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to require GE to:

- Stop dismantling its cleanup equipment
- Dredge remaining toxic "hotspots" in the river
- Make the Champlain Canal viable again for commercial shipping
